

Hi Jade!

I really like what you have so far! You did a great job of creating your mockup into a responsive site and incorporating my feedback. The pictures and layout you chose work really well with the content of the site, and I like the variation between pages. The timeline on The War page is also really nice. Here are a few tiny notes:

- I noticed that the buttons on the nav bar don't react to hover, and I think it could be cool if you incorporated a change in color (maybe just a darker blue) when the user hovers over buttons
- I appreciate the design choices on the first page, but the negative space feels a bit off to me. It could be more effective to make the red text the length of the picture and bring the blue text up the page a little.
- Another thing I noticed is that the image on the bottom of the Aftermath page gets really small as the page gets to smaller sizes (around 450px). Since it's a pretty narrow image already I wonder if it could stay the same size as the page gets smaller.

Overall, the site is look cohesive, and design choices are intentional! Looking great!